

Catholicism: East of Eden* subtitled Insights into Catholicism for the 21st Century.

It is a unique intertwining of sound doctrine and experience with a soft cover, 337 pages and with photographs.

The book is easily available one line at 'Cutting Edge' ministry:

<http://www.cuttingedge.org/detail.cfm?ID=1291>

Evangelical Press is the sole distributor of this book in the UK and Europe, so if you are located in that region, you can contact them and buy that book at:

http://www.evangelicalpress.org/esales/product\_info.php?products\_id=1150

How is Catholicism 'East of Eden'? Worldwide interest in all things Catholic mixes with consternation over recent disclosures from within the Church. Amidst doctrinal and moral confusion, most issues remain unanalyzed and unexplained, leaving both Catholics and non-Catholics wondering where the Roman Catholic Church stands. This book will leave no doubt about the truthful answer. "Some books are so well-done and generally useful they become regarded as standard treatments of their topic and gain a wide readership, like Lorraine Boettner's Roman Catholicism (1962). Whether Bennett's book will become so recognized awaits to be seen, but it stands in this great tradition and its merit is unquestionable. Catholicism: East of Eden is a worthy successor to Boettner's venerable work. Bennett's book may well be the very best we can recommend on this topic to the general reader." — D. Scott Meadows, Pastor Calvary Baptist Church Exeter, New Hampshire, USA

"Numbers have dismissed the former Protestant/Roman debate on the grounds that the past can all be explained in terms of personal animosities. Bennett's work does not fit any such interpretation. Himself a Catholic priest for more than twenty years, he writes with sympathy and affection for former colleagues. He has a much higher purpose in view than any mere winning of an argument. The issue for him is quite as serious as the collision between apostolic Christianity and the Pharisees. It is just because this book is written in a genuinely Christian spirit that it is necessarily controversial. It makes for moving and awakening reading and it is pitched at a level where all can follow."-- Iain H. Murray